INTRODUCTION

Safe housing is a basic need, the foundation for individual and family stability, and the most challenging system to navigate. In Centre County, we are fortunate to have many community entities available to offer support and resources to those who are homeless, near-homelessness, or seeking a more appropriate or affordable housing option. The Housing Resource Guide offers contact information and program summaries for community entities that provide a wide spectrum of housing services in Centre County. While these services are sometimes limited and cannot resolve every situation, we hope this guide sets you in the right direction to connect with the help you need when you need it the most.

Office of Adult Services

GLOSSARY OF TERMS & ABBREVIATIONS

Affordable Housing: Housing is deemed affordable when total monthly expenses for rent/mortgage and utilities do not exceed 30% of the household's gross monthly income. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Assisted Housing: Assisted housing is when public funds are used as a subsidy to reduce the cost of development or to make the rent/mortgage more affordable to the tenants/buyers. (Source: Diana T. Myers and Associates, Inc.)

Area Median Income (AMI): The median divides the income distribution into two equal parts: one-half of the cases falling below the median income and one-half above the median. (Source: City of San Francisco, Planning Department) The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and other funders, such as the Pennsylvania Housing Finance Agency, use AMI to determine household income eligibility for various housing programs.

Bridge/Transitional Housing: Short-term housing with access to appropriate supportive services such as health care, social services, education, and job training to help homeless households achieve self-sufficiency. (Source: Pennsylvania Department of Human Services)

Department of Human Services (DHS): The mission of DHS is to promote, improve, and sustain the quality of family life; break the cycle of dependency; promote respect for employees; protect and serve Pennsylvania's most vulnerable citizens; and manage our resources effectively. DHS administers funding that promotes affordable housing programs. (Source: Pennsylvania Department of Human Services)

Disability/Disabled: Federal laws define a person with a disability as "Any person who has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more major life activities; has a record of such impairment; or is regarded as having such impairment." (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Emergency Shelter: A facility with overnight sleeping accommodations; the primary purpose of which is to provide temporary shelter for the homeless in general or for specific homeless populations. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Fair Housing Act: Title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968 (Fair Housing Act), as amended, prohibits discrimination in the sale, rental, and financing of dwellings, and in other housing-related transactions, based on race, color, national origin, religion, sex, familial status (including children under the age of 18 living with parents or legal custodians, pregnant women, and people securing custody of children under the age of 18), and disability. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Fair Market Rent (FMR): Fair Market Rent is a set standard of money that a given property would command, if it were open for leasing at the moment. FMR is an important concept both in the Housing and Urban Development's ability to determine how much of the rent is covered by the government for those tenants who are part of Section 8, as well as by other governmental institutions. U.S. HUD's Office of Policy Development and Research (PD&R) publishes FMR and Income Limits (respectively, the basis for how much program administrators will subsidize housing units, and the maximum incomes that tenants may not exceed in order to qualify for subsidized housing) on an annual basis. (Source: Business Directory)

Federal Poverty Rates: The federal poverty rates and level guidelines are used as eligibility criteria for a number of federal, state, and local programs. (Source: United States Census)

Homeless: A person is considered homeless when he/she resides in one of the following: places not meant for human habitation (such as cars, parks, sidewalks, and abandoned buildings), an emergency shelter, or transitional housing for homeless persons and who originally came from the streets or emergency shelter. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD): Federal government agency that provides housing-related programming and funding throughout the country (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Housing Choice Voucher (Section 8): A federally-funded rental assistance program for low- and very-low income households, typically administered by public housing authorities. Under this program, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development pays the landlord the difference between 30% of the family's adjusted gross income and the approved or fair market rent for that area. There are two types of Section 8 subsidies:

1. Vouchers -A family is approved, and select from the open market a property inspected and approved as meeting basic habitability requirements. If the family chooses a unit that rents for more than the Fair Market Rent, certain Housing Authorities allow the family to make up the difference between the FMR and the rent charged in addition to their 30% of income rent contribution.

2. Project-based - Some or all of the units in a housing development are approved for Section 8 subsidies. Occupants of those units must meet the income requirements. Property owners receive rental assistance payments for specific units designated for households qualifying for Section 8 assistance (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Housing Quality Standards (HQS) and Inspection: HQS defines “standard housing” and establishes the minimum criteria necessary for the health and safety of program participants on an annual basis. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Imminent Risk of Homeless: An individual or family who will imminently lose (within 14 days) their primary nighttime residence provided that no subsequent residence has been identified and the individual or family lacks the resources or support networks needed to obtain other permanent housing. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Low Income Housing Tax Credit (LIHTC): A dollar-for-dollar tax credit in the United States for affordable housing investments. It was created under the Tax Reform Act of 1986 (TRA86) that gives incentives for the utilization of private equity in the development of affordable housing aimed at low-income Americans. The LIHTC provides funding for the development costs of low-income housing by allowing an investor to take a federal tax credit equal to a percentage of the cost incurred for development of the low-income units in a rental housing project. (Source: Pennsylvania Housing Finance Agency)

Public Housing Agency/Authority (PHA): A government agency generally affiliated with a local government whose responsibility is the ownership and operation of subsidized housing and rental assistance programs. Centre County Housing Authority is our PHA. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Permanent Supportive Housing (PSH): A federally-funded program designed to return individuals and families to permanent housing after lengthy times of homelessness. Candidates for this program must meet the definition of chronically homeless and have a documented disability. Assistance is offered without preconditions (employment, job, income, sobriety or absence of crime) Supportive services are available and tailored to the needs of each household (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Rapid Re-housing (RRH): A federally-funded program that provides assistance to rapidly re-house individuals and families experiencing homelessness. RRH helps families living on the streets and in shelters to solve the challenges of obtaining permanent housing while reducing the amount of time they experience homelessness. RRH can provide time-limited financial assistance and targeted supportive services. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Rental Assistance Program (RAP): Funding provided by the Pennsylvania Department of Human Services. If an individual or family is in danger of being evicted from their apartment or home, there may be assistance of rent/mortgage arrearages and/or security deposits. Assistance can also be used to move out of shelter into an affordable rental unit. (Source: Pennsylvania Department of Human Services)

Rental Subsidy: The Public Housing Authority calculates the maximum amount of housing assistance allowable for Housing Choice Vouchers (Section 8) to pay a household's monthly rent. The maximum housing assistance is generally the lesser of the payment standard minus 30% of the household's monthly adjusted income or the gross rent for the unit minus 30% of monthly adjusted income. (Source: U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development)

Middle-income first time home buyers may receive up to $45,000 toward down payment and closing costs.

Assistance is provided through 0% interest, deferred loans only payable to the Borough when: the home is sold, the home is no longer the buyer's primary residence, or if there is a mortgage default.

First time home buyers with incomes between 60% and 80% of area median income may receive up to $50,000 toward down payment. Assistance is provided through a 0% interest, forgiveness loan that is forgiven at a rate of 3.33% per year for 30 years. Forgiveness loans are only payable to the Borough when: the home is sold, the home is no longer the buyer's primary residence, or if there is a mortgage default. Homes purchased through this program also receive up to $30,000 in rehabilitation at no cost to the homeowner. Rehabilitation is designed to eliminate safety concerns including lead based pain, radon, mold and asbestos; as well as to improve code compliance and energy efficiency.

Homes purchased through these programs may be subject to appreciation limits based on number of years of ownership. Home buyers supply 3% toward down payment or closing costs and receive homebuyer education. All funds paid to the Borough "revolve" to assist other qualified home buyers.
